

WE GIVE THANKS...

We give thanks for the opportunity to walk as free people throughout this wide land; to see the rolling hills and tall buildings, both producing the necessities of our existence in their own way.

We give thanks for the ability to remember the times of our youth, to visit again the memories which helped to make us what we have become.

We give thanks for the openness of assembly, where each Man may speak his mind and heart without fear of the mailed fist of oppression coming upon his shoulder; where each man may work to the best of his abilities with those about him.

We give thanks for the beauty of Man's creation, rising in graceful splendor for use by all; for the silent whisper of the seasons which cover us all with their many-hued tones of life.

We give thanks for the chance of participation in the life about us, to work and play in a pleasure of growth; to walk with close friends in the hush of outdoors.

But mostly, we give thanks for the life following behind us, the young child whose curious look, from wide eyes to learn our world and all its beauty.

For this and so much more, we give our thanks.

Secret Storm Is a Fashion Treat

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bettel

CLOTHES DO MAKE THE CHARACTER, as portrayed by the clothes chosen by Doreen Ackerman for the roles played on the CBS daytime drama, The Secret Storm. Refined blazer and culotte (left) by Sportempos are typical of Valerie Ames, played by Lori March, who always displays good taste with a touch of conservatism. Susan Dunbar, who in private life is Judy Lewis, Loretta Young's daughter, takes time out from her career to don Paris-inspired, ostrich-trimmed chiffon dress for evening, while Melissa Tyson, portrayed by Angela Thornton, shows off a boa of coq feathers on a matching peach crepe, one-shouldered dress. These are by Jeunesse. Houndstooth check of silver and black glitter (right) are united on this divided pantadress worn by Wendy Porter, a fashion-independent teen-ager played by Juli Mannix. This is an Arpeja creation.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Anyone who faithfully watches a serial on television begins to associate the players with the role they play.

And although in real life these people may be nothing like the characters they portray, the costume for the program must also think of them as they come across in their roles. For the clothes they wear are an integral part of the way they come across to the audience. The wrong choice of clothes could even change the impression given when a line is spoken.

Anyone familiar with the characters on CBS' The Secret Storm, knows they are people of means who possess refined good taste. They shop in their local department store, Tyrell's, which could easily be the best department store in any city.

Doreen Ackerman, who has complete charge of selecting the costumes for the show, is surprised at the amount of mail that flows in, asking where garments seen on the show can be purchased. And she is more amazed that friends and relatives say that many of the characters are so sharply defined by their clothes.

"They don't realize that it's all preplanned with exactly that purpose in mind—that each day, I, and not the characters, lay out what they will wear on the next show."

Doreen begins the task of costuming the show by covering the Seventh Avenue fashion market each season and selecting a basic wardrobe for each character, including accessories. Each personality is treated separately, so much so that each has her own closet in the wardrobe room. Doreen knows that she must dress characters, rather than actresses.

"My greatest pleasure," she said, "is watching their eyes light up when a new shipment of clothes comes in. Often they buy them for their own use."

Doreen's excellent background in acting at New York University, costume design at the Yale Graduate School of Drama and current co-ownership of Ackerman-Michaels, a firm which makes couture at-home and evening wear, enables her to make the episode of fashion cohesive with real life in the selections she makes for the program.

Many times the clothes seen on this daytime drama show serve as an advance fashion source for viewers. For often the clothes worn have not yet reached the stores. It is a timely way to keep abreast of fashion trends from the young, swinging set to the more conservative group, as the age range on The Secret Storm is all-inclusive.

Whereas in the 1930s and '40s Hollywood was a prime source in education of the public to major fashion looks, via Dietrich, Crawford or Lombard, today fashion is a day-to-day happening and changes as often as the weather. And here it is projected right on the television screen as soon as it leaves top designers' salons.

There is much more to this constant clothes selection than meets the eye. For instance, the fact that the show now appears in color presents new problems for Doreen.

Each actress has her own home, or set, which remains constant from day to day. And if one character has a green living room, her clothes as well as those of other players who enter her home must be in the greens, golds and browns.

"A hot pink dress, as pretty as it may be in a green room," claims Doreen, "would look like a carnival color on the screen."

The selection of clothes for this show proves that drama and fashion have lots in common. And those who are at home during the day to watch can reap the bonus of a free lesson in what's au courant in design along with good entertainment.

SHOWBEAT

NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—The following is an excerpt from the script of "Star!" which is now being shot at 20th Century-Fox:

GERTIE (SINGS)
TO JENNY I'M BEHOLDEN
HER HEART WAS BIG AND GOLDEN
(she is flipped to sitting position)

BUT SHE WOULD MAKE UP HER MIND.

GERTIE is flipped left to right, sitting, from feet of ACROBAT #3 to feet of ACROBAT #2 then to the arms of ACROBAT #1.

Gertie is played by Julie Andrews, and this business of being flipped about by acrobats is a new twist for her. And it should be noted immediately that she acrobats beautifully. Maybe you've flipped over Julie before, but now you'll have a chance to flip over her flips.

When you see "Star!" you'll probably say, "That must be a double." Maybe she is doubled in some scenes, but in the one I watched, there was no double. Julie did it all.

In "Star!" Julie plays Gertrude Lawrence, the famous English performer who graduated from the music halls to being the toast of Broadway. Her greatest triumph was "Lady in the Dark" (the show which introduced Danny Kaye) and her big number in that was "Jenny."

Jenny is a dream sequence, and the setting is a dreamlike circus. Against a stark white background is the stark black apparatus of the acrobats—platforms, ladders, nets. Five acrobats in vivid reds and pinks cavort on the center platform and Julie does her stuff with them.

She wears all black, sequined even on her gloves and shoes. She sits on the feet of one acrobat who lies down with his legs up. As she sings, she is flipped to another set of feet and then on, through the air, into the arms of a third. As she flips she sings and radiates in typical Julie Andrews style.

One take is spoiled when Julie inadvertently looks down — "Sorry about that, ducks," she says. Another one is spoiled as an acrobat goes — "Now, hurry up, get it right, please," Julie says, laughing. Others are canceled by choreographer Michael Kidd, who is fussy. Ditto director Robert Wise.

Julie is patient through it all, through the 15 takes needed. Between each one, a hairdresser rushes up to tame Julie's rambunctious curls.

"This is the most difficult thing I've done," Julie said, when the shot was over. "But it has tightened up my muscles—and given me a lot of bruises. Imagine, 15 takes on this bloody thing."

Producer Saul Chaplin and musical director Lennie Hayton came by to congratulate her.

"Hello," Julie says. "You just glowed green," she said. "We thought the color would just go away or fade, but we washed him and he didn't change colors, and then the vet scrubbed him but he's still green."

The Dunn's have had many curious visitors since word spread about the green pup, Dunn said he was waiting for the puppy to open its eyes to see if they would be green, also.

By the way, the pup's name is Irish.

see before you just a shadow of my former self."

Chaplin says that Julie is a much better performer than Gertrude Lawrence was.

"Gertrude Lawrence wasn't a great singer or dancer," he says. "Gertrude Lawrence was a great nothing. She couldn't dance or act and her singing was painful. But, on stage, she was magic. We obviously can't show how bad she was, because in Julie we have a great singer and a pretty good dancer."

And she is doing fine with acrobatics, too. That's because of her early training, when she did everything.

All true insects have six legs.

Youth Beat

Youth Corps Grads Make Good: We hope so. Each Youth Corps trainee receives the dollar equivalent of a college education. This figure will be lowered as start-up costs are amortized and the jurisdictional bickering slows down. Recent labor department study in four cities (Durham, N.C.; Cincinnati, East St. Louis and St. Louis). The idea of total specialization is being pushed as contrasted with a general education program.

Eye Quicker Than Hand: Shoplifting epidemic still rages. Warning to those who would steal steaks, chops and other meats. Most meat departments have one-way mirrors behind counters. Shoplifting teens now discovering that crime does not pay, never did.

Teen Seal of Disapproval: For lack of value and/or deficiency of design. Latest hook to hang teen youth-quake on and we mean hang. Gives entrepreneurs the "opportunity" to buy two teen dance clubs (sponsored by a now defunct television program concept) at the same time. Promises fabulous riches and immediate success to buyer. Once again teens feel resentful exploitation by adults has no end, they claim. Teens stay away from phony setups in drives, drive speculators wild. Too bad.

Things Run Deep in College Race: New way to crash college is not to be that once-worshipped, exhausting, exhaustive all-things-to-all-people student. Now colleges dig those who choose extracurricular activities with more moxie—that is, have an in-depth interest in a particular area.

Moon Boon Breath of Life: New "diffraction" apparatus now being worked on at UCLA. Put air where there wasn't any. Like on planets which lack atmosphere.

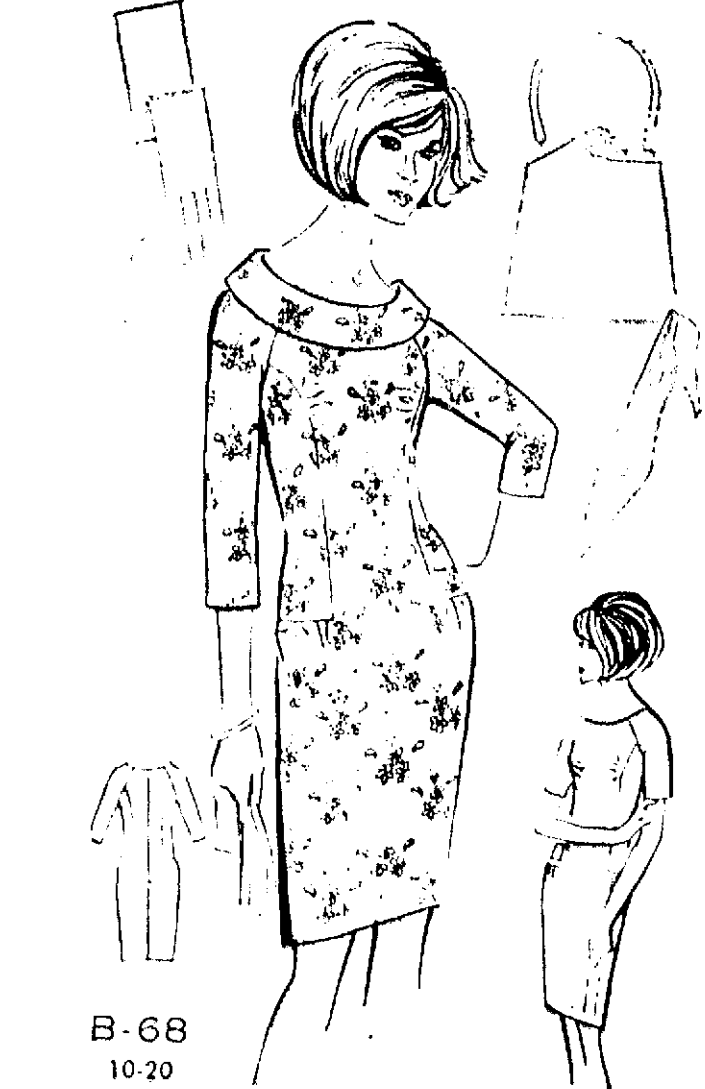

Youth Served in Asia: Asian students toppled more than one government in last decade by demonstrations and pressure. Why? Authorities say that relatively few Asians are college educated. Are looked upon with awe as "learned ones" by older generation. Comparisons anyone?

Psychic Dependence: Big new direction is "pot" for and against marijuana. One expert testifies that "pot" is conducive to psychic dependence that includes several anxiety symptoms, memory clouding and loss of desire "to do." He states the drug is a hazard to public health and promotes significant vagabondage. No wonder so many hippies are hitchhikers.

Writing on the Wall: At a certain popular teen beach in Santa Monica, Calif., there is a wall, a wild, wild, psychedelic wall that records the cultural revolution intact. Not only do you know who loves who, but what's the latest in nutty sayings and psychedelic designs. Sitting near it is a status symbol further away denotes out-of-tendencies.

Look for It: Beautybug hair dryer for teens. Has a salon sized head and a cute face, believe it or not. Must see to believe. Promises to be quiet enough not to "bug" you while talking on phone.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The latest modern computers can complete more computations in three minutes than a man can do in a lifetime. Says The World Almanac: With the use of computers, the work of classifying and summarizing the 1960 U.S. Census required only about eight months compared to the six years required for the last census in 1950.

Sunday & Monday At Saenger

A DEEP RELATIONSHIP develops between Clint Howard and the gigantic but gentle Ben, in "Gentle Giant," an Ivan Tors production for Paramount.

Inventors please note: Needed, a flat vacuum jug to fit in those important-looking dispatch cases in which junior executives carry their lunches.

Considering the rising price picture, what's needed is a sure-fire series of articles on how to get on a weight-gaining diet.

Irate merchants, checking inventories, have a suspicion that certain someone are doing their Christmas shoplifting early.

One of the staff goes to the bank every lunch hour—to fill his pen.

The busybody who always wants to know what's cooking in the front office may find out it's his own goose.

Some people just don't have mechanical ability—for instance, the practitioner of the mechanic's art who most recently worked on our car.

We always hesitate to write about lead-directing doubles because, in a sense, any time you double when your partner is on lead you expect him to consider his lead in the light of your double. Various specific conventions apply only to doubles of slam or three no-trump contracts. Against a freely bid slam, the double just asks your partner to make an unusual lead. Thus, if you have bid a suit and then double a suit slam contract, you are asking your partner to lead some other suit. Against no-trump contracts this does not apply. When you double a three, six or seven no-trump contract you are saying, "Partner! Lead my suit!"

East has a normal one club opening. No one can criticize South's one no-trump overall or North's jump to three no-trump. Without a club lead South will knock out the ace of diamonds and start with nine top tricks. If he takes the spade and heart finesses he will actually make two over-tricks.

Furthermore, no one could criticize a spade lead by West in the event that East had not doubled three no-trump. West would hope to hit his partner with good spades and enough other stuff to keep declarer from running off nine tricks before the spades can be run against him.

In fact, some people are prone enough to try surprise leads that they would still open a spade after their partner's double. That is, they would do so unless they were playing this specific convention. In that case they would open a club and hope for the best. The best would materialize. South would have to go after diamonds and East would collect one diamond, four clubs and 200 points.

Pelican Roundup Time at Zoo

NEW YORK (AP) — It was pelican roundup time at the Bronx Zoo Thursday and the doughty keepers donned their hip boots and readied rowboats for the fray.

Seven pelicans, obviously determined not to be corralled and sent to their winter quarters, skinned in opposite directions over Lake Cope in the zoo.

The bird flapped but the boatmen paddled furiously and 2½ hours later the last recalcitrant was safely stowed for transportation in the back of a station wagon.

"They used their half-wing, flip-flop offense this year," sighed Gordon Cyle, membership chairman of the New York Zoological Society. "We just weren't prepared for them."

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Stannous Fluoride Fights Tooth Decay

Topical application of fluorides has proven to be a remarkable phenomenon in prevention of tooth decay. For instance, painting teeth with stannous fluoride (symbol SnF2) can give a degree of protection as high as 35 per cent. Properly applied immediately following dental prophylaxis, it is a simple, inexpensive, quick and direct means of fighting tooth decay.

The following combination of three topical uses offers even better protection:

Dental office use:

1. As part of dental prophylaxis, your dentist should brush and polish teeth with paste containing SnF2.

2. Immediately following prophylaxis, teeth should be isolated with cotton rolls and dried with compressed air; then painted with 10 per cent solution of SnF2, allowing it to remain in contact with the teeth for 30 seconds.

Home use:

1. Brush teeth after every meal with toothpaste containing SnF2.

Some mothers ask why all this is necessary for their children so long as they live in a fluoridated area. The answer is, because this combination can boost protection against tooth decay to a level of 70 to 80 per cent.

For those few children who object to the taste of SnF2, other less disagreeable fluorides are available — the acidulated phosphate containing fluoride, which is equally effective in making enamel more resistant to decay. But it requires four-minute application.

There have been a few complaints of staining of necks of teeth after topical use of SnF2. This is uncommon and, when it occurs, seems to affect only decalcified and defective portions of enamel. Strangely enough, these complaints are more common in areas where water supply is NOT fluoridated. Actual staining is due to formation of tin sulfides.

Unfortunately, protection against tooth decay by painting with fluorides seems to decline with time. Even though some degree of protection continues for 12 to 24 months, treatment at six month intervals is recommended for best results.

No Sugar for Army Team This Season

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — There'll be no sugar for the Army football team on New Year's Day, but the classy Cadets won't find a Pentagon "No Bowl" edict too hard to swallow — if they can make Pitt and Navy their cup of tea.

Cadet hopes for an unprecedented postseason appearance were dashed Thursday when Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor decreed that no bowl bids would be accepted by the U.S. Military Academy.

"It was concluded that accepting an invitation to play in a postseason bowl game would tend to emphasize football to an extent not consistent with the basic mission of the Academy, which is to produce career Army officers," the Pentagon statement read.

Army, driving toward its best season win-up in 18 years, reportedly had been in line for an invitation to the Sugar Bowl classic in New Orleans. Sugar Bowl officials had indicated strong interest in the Cadets, 7-1, should they get past Pitt Saturday.

While one Army bowl booster, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., was sharply critical of the decision, and vowed he would seek to have it changed, the Cadets themselves kept in step with the order from above.

Vocally disappointed Thursday morning when reports circulated that "people in high places" would reject an Army bowl appearance because of the Vietnam war, the Cadet Corps had regrouped by nightfall and were sighting their guns on Saturday's foe—and Navy.

Hogs Favored Over SMU by Six Points

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Two games that can pave the way to the first Texas-Texas A&M showdown for the Southwest Conference championship in 26 years also can produce the biggest jam.

It is quite possible that four teams will be tied for the lead after Saturday's action that brings all conference members into traditional games.

Texas and Texas A&M right now are deadlocked for the lead with 4-1 records. Texas Tech is 3-2 and Texas Christian is 2-2.

Texas hosts Texas Christian, which could pull into a virtual tie for the top should it fall.

Texas hosts Texas Christian, which could pull into a virtual tie for the top should it fall the Longhorns.

Texas A&M plays Rice at Houston and should the Owls, back at their offensive peak, knock off the Aggies, then A&M would be tied with Texas, Texas Christian and Texas Tech.

It's not supposed to come out this way except in the case of Texas Tech whipping the Bears.

Texas is a smashing 16-point favorite over Texas Christian although the Horned Frogs are noted taunters of the Longhorns down the November stretch. Texas A&M is better than a touchdown choice over Rice. Tech is given 12 points over Bay or.

But there's one thing certain — if Texas and Texas A&M both win, the conference title will be decided at College Station Thanksgiving Day.

While the biggies are battling it out with the lesser lights, a couple of teams that aren't shining much get at each other as Southern Methodist tries to snap a six-game losing streak against Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. Arkansas has the incentive of drawing even for the season.

Arkansas is a six-point favorite. It was the only conference team able to beat Southern Methodist last fall when the Mustangs were champions.

Crowds totaling close to 180,000 will see the four games, with the largest turnout at Houston where the Rice-Aggie battle always is the attraction of the year. They may have as high as 70,000.

Texas and Texas Christian will clash before better than 50,000 as the Longhorns go after their seventh straight victory and Texas Christian tries to extend its streak to three.

along behind. Or he may let all his passengers sit in back of the boat. Then the front end he calls the bow will point so high he never can get the boat going fast enough to level out and let him see where he is going. So he plows through channel markers, buoys, logs, rocks, sandbars, swimmers and other craft.

Some owners roar out of a slip or around the bend in the river and onto other boatmen. Sometimes broadside, sometimes head-on. Big freighters that can't top 10 knots always station a lookout. But runaway jockeys doing 30 don't even look around.

DROPPING IN or just passing through? This 16-foot runabout plowed through a cabin cruiser recently. The Coast Guard now ranks collisions as the leading cause of boat casualties.

Caution to All Boatmen

"Boats don't cause accidents, but boatmen do," the Coast Guard officer said. "Don't use my name but most accidents on the water this year were caused by stupid carelessness."

Official Coast Guard evaluations, just released, seem to say much the same thing. More than 50 per cent of this past summer's boating accidents were collisions. Most did not involve right of way. They were caused by operator error—a Coast Guard term which means the idiot steering did not look where he was going.

Sometimes this happens when a driver keeps looking back at water skiers bouncing

WEST END, Grand Bahama Island—(NEA)—Twelve-year-old Christopher Clark of Encinitas, Calif., looks like Norman Rockwell's concept of a kid—tousled hair with cowlick, freckled nose and shy boyish grin.

But one thing sets Chris Clark apart from the other Huckleberry Finns in this world. Chris Clark is one heck of a marksman with a scatter-

Claybird Tournament.

Shooting in Class Five on the San Diego-based squad. Chris ground out a 385x400, beating his father, Dr. Charles Clark, the Class Three shooter on the team, by two birds. To make it even more impressive, Chris missed being high gun for the tournament by only two birds, losing out to Jim Nankivell of Indianapolis. Class One shooter for the Midwest team.

To make that achievement sparkle still more, Chris first took up claybird shooting in April of this year.

There are still other unusual aspects to the friendly fivesome from sunny Southern California.

gun. Recently, Chris outshot four of his elders (including his father) to pace the West Region team's victory in the finals of the 1967 Winchester

The Class Three shooter is a gal. And quite a dish. Gena Steinmann, 29, an airline receptionist in San Diego, proved for the second year running that the ladies can hold their own in shotgun sports.

The Californians, representing Otay Winchester Public Shooting Center in Chula Vista, were the defending champions in the tournament. Last year's team also included a woman, Mrs. Connie Metcalf, herself a looker.

The only team member, however, who shot on the 1966 championship squad was Glenn Eubank, 35, a general contractor from El Cajon. Glenn was Class Two in '66, but moved up to Class One this year.

The fifth member of the squad is George Ellis, a wholesale drygoods dealer from Chula Vista.

Five average people, plucked from Maple Street, Anytown, U.S.A. No superstars. Just neighbors. But they came out on top of nearly 6,000 shooters in the United States and Canada who plunked down their 10 bucks to enter the tournament.

And their leader was Chris Clark, age 12.

HOMEFOLKS REMEMBER STAN

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When Stan Mikita takes a trip home he doesn't call up mummy and tell her to meet him at the airport.

Mikita is a star hockey player for the Chicago Black Hawks. His home town is Sokolce, Czechoslovakia. His mother, brother and sister only see him every four or five years.

When he was 8, Stan was adopted by an aunt and uncle in Canada. It was the only way he could leave Czechoslovakia legally. His family thought it best that he grow up in a free country.

Just prior to the start of this year's hockey season, Mikita returned from a trip to his homeland, where he was part of a visiting exchange program. He was accompanied by a three-man camera crew from the National Canadian Film Co.

"We filmed a documentary on Czechoslovakia to show in Canada and the Czechs sent a crew to Canada," Mikita said. Stan played in a couple exhibition games while at home and found that he had a large following.

They get reports from back here," he said, "and they keep up with the sport very well."

Another thing he mentioned was that everything in Czechoslovakia is evaluated by how long a person has to work to earn a loaf of bread.

THE CHICAGO BLACK HAWKS got off to a slow start in the National Hockey League race. But with Bobby Hull (left) and Stan Mikita in the lineup, their fortunes are expected to rise rapidly.

Some of the people work for days to earn one loaf," he said. "They can't believe that I can go a couple months during hockey's off season without working and still have bread! I told them that even the poorest people over here can make enough in one hour for a loaf."

He didn't say if his mother asked him about a couple of small scars over his eyebrows but he said he probably answered that sometimes, even in North America, earning a loaf of bread can be a pretty tough job.

Between You'n' Me

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

"I know you have traveled a long way from home."—Sr. Guillermo Vidales Aparicio, presidente, Asociacion Mexicana de Golf, in welcoming golfers from 41 lands to the 15th annual World Cup competition.

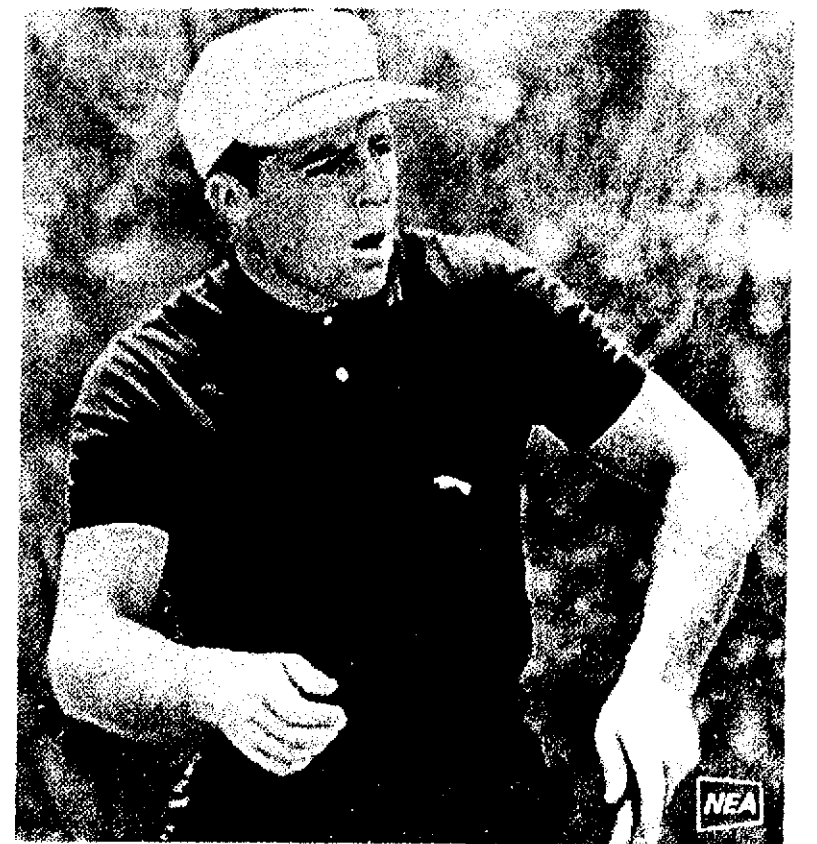

Player Keeps 'The Most Amazing Hours'

MEXICO CITY—(NEA)—Gary Player, tan and fit, his cheeks filled out from a 10-day idyll on his many-acred farm, drove down to Johannesburg to catch the 6 p.m. flight that would take him to the World Cup of Golf. This was on a Friday afternoon in South Africa.

The South African Airways plane took off without a hitch. So Gary settled back—as much as he ever settles back—for an uneventful trip. After all, he travels 200,000 miles a year.

Touchdown was the next morning in Madrid at 9 o'clock. Gary checked and found out he had a four-hour layover.

"I was damn unlucky," he recounted. "I could take a TWA out at noon or 1 o'clock. The latter was direct to New York."

so I got on it. We'd no sooner got in the air than the pilot announced, 'This flight has been re-routed via Boston.'

"Monstrous. Now I've got to go through customs there when I land and make my way to New York."

It was 5 p.m. in Boston when he landed, but already, Gary pointed out, midnight in South Africa. He'd gone 30 hours without taking off anything more than his shoes.

"I flew to New York," he continued, "and find I've missed my connection there to Mexico City. There is an 8 o'clock Saturday night flight, but the gentleman at the counter tells me it's all filled, with only standby space."

"What else have you got?" I ask him. "There's one in the morning," he says, "but it's booked solid. I could definitely get you on one Tuesday morning."

Gary prudently stood there and took his chances on making the 8 o'clock. "Oh by the way," he told the agent, "I've got no visa."

The young man blanched.

"But I've got word from the International Golf Association (sponsor of the World Cup): there'll be one waiting for me in Mexico City."

"They'll make you turn around and come right back here," said the agent. "You'll just be paying $500 for the trip."

"A Player exaggeration."

"I'll chance it," said Gary, and boarded the plane.

As they taxied down the runway, the pilot announced, "Sorry, folks, we have some trouble with our hydraulic system. There'll be a one-hour delay."

"Now," noted Gary, "it's 9 o'clock, but you must remember it's 4 in the morning for me in South Africa. I don't even remember the plane taking off. I was that exhausted."

It was 2:30 a.m. in Mexico City when the plane carrying Gary Player landed, 40½ hours after his original departure from Johannesburg. They did not make him turn around and go back.

But it doesn't end there, folks.

When Gary arrived at the hotel, 3 a.m., the desk clerk looked at him blankly and said, "Well, I'm very sorry. You weren't here at 6 o'clock last night, so we gave your room to someone else."

With maximum persuasion, Player assured him he wasn't going back into the street. Empty space was located in a rented suite.

"They brought three stretchers," said Gary, "and put them in a side room. There I am with two Austrian golfers who came in at the same time."

And that's what's great about this international competition. We stood there and talked. I know a little German, you know, while they made up the beds."

Gary Player has also found there is a delayed effect to this topsy-turvy schedule maintained by an international golfer. "You go to the bathroom," he said a couple of days later, "at the most amazing hours."

Two Protections

In the United States the people are entitled to both a fair trial and a free press. Both are protected in the Constitution and neither obstructs the other.

This is the message to the Associated Press Managing Editors Association meeting from J. W. Ehrlich of San Francisco, a famous lawyer who opposes proposals by the American Bar Association for restrictions on trial reporting. His view is a restatement of a principle heard from others during the long dispute between some lawyers and news men. But Mr. Ehrlich says it very well. Part of his words are:

"Neither the press nor the bar is the exclusive keeper of justice. I know of no editor who opposes fair trials. I know of no lawyer who opposes public disclosure."

For newspapermen, of course, the emphasis is on the need for a self-governing people to know about crime and administration of justice. — Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

You Do Your Share, Fellow

The population of the U.S. is right at 200,000,000 now. That thought put one of those practical mathematicians to work. He calculated this way:

Half of the total are under 21, leaving 100 million to work. There are 70 million over 65, leaving 30 million to work. Government employs 24,000,001. That leaves 5,999,999 people to work. The military has 5,600,000 in service, leaving 399,999. In hospitals and sick are another 203,000, leaving 196,999. Jails are keeping 101,000 leaving 95,999 to do the work. People lost or missing total 54,000, leaving 41,999—of which 41,997 are bums, protestors or agitators.

That leaves you and me to do the work. — Williamson (W. Va.) Daily News

Improper Signal, No

The movement to curb careless drivers seems to be international. In the City of Rio de Janeiro, for instance, wolfish motorists are a problem, so the law can now revoke the license of any driver who flirts with female pedestrians.

Time Check

A Cincinnati television station has a clever gimmick to remind parents of their responsibilities. Just before the 11 p.m. news, a sign is flashed onto the screen saying: "It is 11 p.m. Where are your children?" We wonder how many parents in Lexington would have a hard time answering that question, at 11 p.m. — Lexington (Ky.) Leader

Giving A Hoot

A columnist advises that "drunken guests are the host's responsibility." Quite right. And not only when at his home but after they leave. Take the typical drunken guest's habit of giving a farewell toast with his car's horn before he drives off into the night. The host is responsible for that just as much as the guest. To remain on friendly terms with his neighbors, he should therefore seriously consider disconnecting all horns before the party ends. — Shreveport (La.) Journal

New Answer on Plans for Money Prize

LONDON (AP) — Madeleine Harlog-Bel, the newly crowned Miss World, had a ready answer when asked what she was going to do with her $7,000 prize money.

"I'm going to send it to my mother," said the 21-year-old Madeleine who entered the 54-girl contest as Miss Peru.

The raven-haired beauty had swooned earlier Thursday night when told she had won the title. But she was quickly revived and took the throne.

She told reporters that she was engaged to 25-year-old Raul Laue, a public relations officer for a hotel in Lima.

Johnson Lashes at Dissenters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The administration went to great lengths this week to convince as many people as possible that, slowly but surely, the United States is winning the war in Vietnam.

The facts of war seemed to support the optimism, but, as President Johnson noted in a televised news conference, there still are plenty of dissenters.

In a Friday news conference which had all the trappings of a preview of campaign tactics, Johnson said, "We are pleased with the results we are getting" in Vietnam and he noted that Gen. William C. Westmoreland expects no increase in the military troop level now authorized at 525,000. The President, in a generally more informal session with reporters in the East Room, accepted responsible dissent on Vietnam, but emphasized the difference between that and what he called storm trooper tactics of critics, as when demonstrators against the war block streets and shout down public speakers. He stressed that the United States will not quit Vietnam without an honorable peace, regardless of domestic dissent. "We keep our commitments," he said. "Our people are going to support the men who are there. The men are going to bring us an honorable peace."

The news conference capped a week in which the President consulted with Ellsworth Bunker, his ambassador in Saigon, Westmoreland, and other top officials involved in the Southeast Asian conflict. Bunker, in an unusual number of public appearances during the week, said that the United States and its allies were making "steady progress" in the war. Westmoreland, returning to Washington Wednesday just a few days behind Bunker, declared: "I have never been more encouraged in my four years in Vietnam." And, while administration officials pressed their public optimism about the war, new intelligence reports estimated that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troop strength was down over a nearly three year period, from 285,000 to 242,000. The drop was explained partly as a result of new calculations, and partly a combination of increased enemy casualties and decreased enemy troop replacements.

Meanwhile, American troops won a major victory over North Vietnamese regulars, driving them from two strategic heights below Dak To, on Hill 1338. The conquest wiped out the prospect that the Reds would employ rockets or long range weapons on the crest of the hill to shell allied installations in the Central Highlands battle now in its third week. In another first in the air war, meanwhile, U.S. fighter-bombers raided the Bach Mai airfield at Hanoi, a secondary air strip which had previously been exempt from allied bombings.

Corporate Profits Trend Is Reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corporate profits reversed a nine-month downward trend during the third quarter, jumping $1.2 billion to an annual rate of $80.1 billion before taxes, the Commerce Department reported today.

At the same time, the department said overall economic growth in the third quarter was greater than at first believed. It said the gross national product, the value of all goods and services produced in the economy, increased by $16.1 billion—instead of $15 billion—to an annual rate of $791.2 billion.

The report gives the Johnson administration new ammunition in its battle with Congress over President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes.

Government economists contend the economy, which was slowed by strikes, will be moving faster in the fourth quarter.

Hope Plant 'Dreamed' of Moving Closer to Market 10 Years Ago

By MARY ANITA LASETER

(Part Two of the Hope Wire Products story)

You could say that people who make spring units for mattresses, like the ones produced at Hope Wire Products, are in a dream business where it's necessary to stay wide awake. You see, it's other people's snoozing in dreamland in which these folks are most interested.

Plant Manager Harold Eakley supplied us with some eyeopeners about this business of sleep. In a way, he did. The first fact is, "The confusion about sleep comes from one thing: Nobody knows what sleep is." There have been numerous theories why we sleep, but most agree it's because we are tired (but there is also a point in favor of boredom being a cause). At any rate, tests show that sleep is generally deepest for the first couple of hours and that very old people need the least sleep.

Can you survive without sleep? Nobody can tell you for sure how long you can go without sleep. One thing is sure—it's more essential than sustenance. A test group of laboratory animals lasted 20 days without food or water. Another group died after 5 days without sleep.

The wackiest, weirdest, most intriguing thing about sleep is dreaming . . . and it's one of the most discussed. Though people have tried to interpret the meaning of dreams since the beginning of time (remember your Bible stories?), even scientists can't say too much for sure about dreams. Through the use of an electroencephalograph, scientists DO know that your eyes move rapidly during a dream—exactly as they would move if you were watching the action of the dream. Like a spectator in a theatre, you shift positions and fidget before the action starts, but once the show has begun your body is motionless, except for your eyes.

The eyes of the owners of Holland Maid in Holland, Mich., were turned to Hope ten years ago when it became of financial necessity to locate a branch manufacturing plant closer to their large number of Southwest markets. Of the many available locations in the country, why was Hope chosen?

First, there was Hope's strategic location for markets. The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission offered informative service and the local Chamber of Commerce provided splendid co-operation. Last, and certainly not least, the enthusiastic support which the people of Hope gave to the location of the plant here played an important part in Holland coming to Hope . . . with everything but the tulips.

WR Could Keep No. 1 Auto Tag

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas' new motor vehicle licensing system, as it exists under Act 465 of 1967, could allow Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller to retain the No. 1 tag after his term in office expires.

Under the new system, the license plate is issued to the individual and not the vehicle. The first issue will cover at least five years and since Rockefeller says he wants to serve as governor only through 1970, he could have several years remaining in which to utilize No. 1, traditionally reserved for the state's chief executive.

However, Marion Burton, the governor's executive secretary, says with a smile, "I think I can say without conferring with the governor that he will relinquish that number when he leaves office."

Searcy Is Picked for Street Study

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads announced today the selection of Searcy as the first city in the nation under 25,000 population for a new federal street traffic study.

The study is under a federal program introduced last February to economically increase the capacity and safety of existing street systems through traffic engineering measures.

The study will be carried out by city, state highway and federal personnel and will be conducted over a 12 to 18 month period.

The selection of Searcy as a pilot city in the study also means the city is the second city, regardless of size west of the Mississippi River, to be accepted for the study.

Students and Instructor Are Charged

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Five Arkansas Tech students and the instructor have been charged with "having marijuana under their control." Deputy Prosecutor Ike Allen Laws Jr. of Russellville said Thursday.

Laws said officers raided two off-campus apartments Tuesday and confiscated a small quantity of marijuana, a water pipe device he said was used to smoke marijuana, brown turkish cigarette papers, a cigarette rolling machine and some marijuana cigarettes.

Charged and free on bond are students Vincent Miles Gammill, 22, of Fort Smith; Larry Wayne Woodall, 23, of Hot Springs; Larry Raymond Newton, 25, of Dover; John Dadds, 22, of Ontario, Canada; and Martha Dianne Willett of Russellville.

Aarn Barton, a first-year member of Tech's English department, also was charged, Laws said.

Gammill and Woodall were tenants of the two off-campus apartments raided by police, Laws said.

The six persons will be formally arraigned before Circuit Judge Russell Roberts Monday morning, Laws said.

All six have been temporarily suspended from school.

Rockefeller to Undergo Tests

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller arrived in New York Thursday night where he is expected to undergo medical tests after suffering from "a respiratory ailment" and "extreme exhaustion."

Dr. Charles Wells of Morriston, the governor's personal physician, who accompanied him to New York, had ordered Rockefeller last Monday to rest for at least a week.

Mrs. Rockefeller, who was already in New York for a meeting, canceled a planned speaking engagement in Memphis for Thursday night to be with the governor. She was to have addressed a leadership conference of Region Five of the Girl Scouts.

Rioting Is Getting More Violent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tolerance has a crooked neck. This comes from leaning over backwards not to appear intolerant. The result is that violent demonstrations are getting more violent.

Freedom of expression, including the right to dissent, is a basic American right. But expressing dissent through violence is not a right. Only the peaceful kind is.

Violent expression is a national disgrace. If permitted to continue, it opens the door to anarchy since it is a defiance of law and order.

But there seems to be a great public reluctance—and particularly on the part of government leadership—to urge and take strong action to prevent mass violence or to crush it fast if it occurs.

Both whites and Negroes have committed historic acts of violence in the past few months, even though for different reasons.

In Detroit last summer Negroes looted and burned but Michigan and national authorities showed great hesitancy to meet the violence with full force fast and crush it.

Then this week in New York where Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke at a hotel, bands of anti-Vietnam war demonstrators, unable to pierce the police lines set up to protect Rusk, turned the night into a riot.

They pelted policemen, automobiles and buildings with stones' blood and resisted arrest. Forty of them were arrested and a number of persons, including five policemen were injured.

The steers' blood was supposed to symbolize human blood shed in Vietnam. The secretary of state had to slip into the hotel through its garage hours ahead of time to avoid the pickets.

Rusk and President Johnson have to travel under increased security guard and, reportedly, have had to cancel some of their public appearances when they learned thousands of antiwar pickets were waiting for them.

Although Johnson is in the No. 1 position to act and arouse public opinion to act against the increasing irresponsibility and violence he hasn't said much about it.

The roots of the violence probably go back into the 1950s when white liberals journeyed South to help Negroes test the discriminatory racial laws still on the books there.

Those were relatively peaceful expressions of protest and they were effective in arousing the country to the injustices against Negroes. But the idea of protest by direct action, first by peaceful picketing, caught on around the nation.

Bit by bit violence grew out of the demonstrations in schools and cities until some weeks ago a mob protesting the Vietnam war tried to force its way into the Pentagon.

It's a good guess that a number of the pickets—judging from their brainless actions—were mental emotional cases using the war as an excuse, conscious or not, to defy society or wreak vengeance on it.

The No. 1 question is how to stop the violence. If it continues it is not hard to imagine some blood baths ahead as the violent ones among the demonstrators move from steers' blood to bombs and bullets.

SUSAN MCCAIN

Susan McCain, Vice-President of the Hope High School Student Council, was presented with the quarterly Joe Amour Award, Wednesday morning by Mr. Joe Barentine, principal. In presenting the award, Mr. Barentine said that the qualities looked for in choosing the recipient were: service to the school, character, and scholarship.

As a Junior, Susan is quite active in Student Council affairs and has represented the school at the National Association of Student Councils in Philadelphia this summer. In October she attended the Southern Associations of Student Councils in Little Rock.

As Vice-President, Susan is responsible for much of the work of the Council. Susan is an active member of the First Baptist Church and Youth Choir; a Senior Girl Scout, member of the Future Teachers of America, Bobettes, and a five semester honor role student.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Pat McCain of Oakhaven.

Senate Bans Prescriptions With Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has killed a plan to include the cost of prescription drugs in medicare insurance coverage for nearly 18 million elderly Americans.

The vote Thursday was 37 to 33 to uphold Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen's move to table an amendment to the Social Security bill offered by Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M.

Dirksen, saying the plan would cost $690 million in the first year, contended the federal government couldn't afford the $345 million which would be its share. Montoya insisted the cost would be $220 million equally shared by medicare enrollees and the government.

Montoya said this would mean only 50 cents extra a month in premiums for each enrollee. The monthly fee now is $3 but indications are it will go up to $4 next year.

Montoya said his plan would require government testing of drugs and provide reimbursement only for the lowest cost drug appropriate for a particular ailment.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said this would mean opening "the back door to control of the nation's drug industry."

MOP Halts Ark. to La. Services

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Passenger train service between Little Rock and Alexandria, La., came to a permanent halt when train No. 32 of the Missouri Pacific Lines arrived here Thursday night.

A companion train, MoPac's No. 31, had made its last trip from Little Rock to Alexandria Wednesday night.

The MoPac passenger service was the second line within a week to discontinue service through Little Rock. Rock Island stopped its run from Memphis through Little Rock to Tucumcari, N. M., last Friday.

Foreign Aid Cut in Spite of LBJ Plea

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's statement to the nation that Congress would make a serious error in slashing his foreign aid bill was followed shortly by a House decision to cut it by a whopping one-third.

By a vote of 167 to 143, the House voted Friday for an appropriation figure of $2,196 billion, compared with the $3,226 billion sought by the President.

If the Senate goes along, this would be the deepest cut in the 20-year history of foreign aid.

But Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to appear Monday before the Senate Appropriations Committee in an attempt to restore at least some of the funds.

The measure, including provisions to restrict purchases of modern weapons by underdeveloped nations receiving the aid money, was passed by a coalition of 124 Democrats and 43 Republicans. It was opposed by 55 Democrats and 88 Republicans.

Action came only a few hours after Johnson, during a news conference on television and radio, said he felt it was "a serious mistake" for Congress to cut what he called a very low aid request at a time when the United States, richest country on earth, is enjoying great prosperity.

The aid program is for 100 countries and 5 territories in the year ending next June 30.

During the debate, an attempt to give the President discretion in making decisions on withholding economic assistance to underdeveloped countries buying sophisticated weapons was rejected.

This kept in the bill language sponsored by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., to curb purchases of weapons such as jet planes and missiles systems by underdeveloped nations by withholding economic assistance in the amount they spend for the equipment. This also bars use of any military aid funds for similar purchases.

Exempted from the provision are Greece, Turkey, Iran, Israel, Nationalist China, the Philippines and South Korea.

Also defeated was an attempt to revoke discretion of the President in permitting the Export-Import Bank to give credit to Communist countries.

The bill provides $1,831 billion of the $2,630 billion sought for economic aid and $365 million of the $596 million requested for military assistance. It is $740 million less than Congress provided last year.

Industry Key to Selection of Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — John T. Meriwether, Texarkana city manager, says Texarkana's approach to the "model cities" program would be to "worry about the people."

"If we can make the people productive, they will take care of the physical facilities," he said.

It was announced Thursday that Texarkana and 62 other cities had been chosen for the model cities program. Texarkana was the only Arkansas city selected.

The cities will share in $11 million for planning and in the $300 million Congress appropriated for model cities for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Texarkana, Tex., also was selected for the program. The Arkansas and Texas sides of the city submitted separate applications and plans.

Meriwether said the immediate target on the Arkansas side was about 40 per cent of the city, in which he described conditions as "some good, some bad, some horrible."

He said plans would include urban renewal and public housing, but that the city hoped to do more than "just tear down houses and build streets."

Texarkana, he said, was getting more industry and "we want to make sure we grow right."
